Synopsis

Prologue: The living-room in Pa Hinkle's home in Clinton, Ohio. A spring evening. Seven o'clock.

Act I: Same as the Prologue. Later in the evening.

Act II: Laurania--A duplicate of the Hinkle living-room. Afternoon.

Act III: Same as Act II. Another afternoon.

Epilogue: Same as the Prologue and Act I. Night.

Furniture loaned by Home Furniture Company,
Canonsburg's Leading Furniture Store.

To Laurania, a kingdom where almost anything can happen and where almost everything does happen, the Hinkles--Pa, Ma, Marian, and Wilbur--are transported from their home in Clinton, Ohio.

They are finally rescued from their many adventures there by a friend of Marian's from Clinton, Wayne Douglas. Stephen Kruger, Oswald Mahler, and Melissa Destinn are government officials in Laurania. At the court there are: Duchess Augusta and her daughter, Julia, and Wanda, an artist's model. Emery and Leon are courtiers; the pages are called Page One and Page Two.
