Highly Respected Couple Of Hickory Celebrate 50th Anniversary of Marriage

1930

HICKORY, Nov. 23.—This community was again treated to the sound of golden wedding bells, as Mr. and Mrs. James A. McPeak today arrived at the fiftieth milestone of their wedded life. The event was quietly celebrated Saturday night with a family dinner at the home of a daughter, Mrs. John H. McDowell.

Mr. and Mrs. McPeak, highly-respected residents of this town, were married Nov. 23, 1880, at Midway, by the Rev. G. M. Kerr, D. D., who is still pastor of the Candor Presbyterian Church. Mrs. McPeak's maiden name was Elizabeth Davis, and a guest at the wedding was her sister, Mrs. D. W. Eastman, who passed away only last Sunday in her home in Midway. They have lived in their present home for 48 years.

The McPeak home was blessed with five children, all of whom are living: Walter K. McPeak, of the Washington road; Vincent W., identified with the grocery business in Hickory for many years; Mrs. John H. McDowell, of near Hickory; Mrs. George Strouse, Ithaca, Mich., and Mrs. Clifford H. McNary, of Library. There are 11 grandchildren. Mrs. Elizabeth McPeak Wilshaw, the only married granddaughter, was present, with her husband, at the golden wedding dinner Saturday night.

Mr. McPeak, who was born at Venice, 80 years ago, moved to Hickory with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent McPeak, when a small boy. At that time, the houses in the village were mostly of log construction. Tailor shops and copper shops seemed to require half the floor space in town.

Learning the trade of plasterer, Mr. McPeak became one of the best-known men at that trade in Washington County, having worked in all the important towns, as well as in the surrounding country. Half the houses in Hickory were plastered by him.

The first plastering job Mr. McPeak took was a school house on the William Dinsmore farm, in Cecil Township. His second employment was on the County Home, some 60 years ago. The only other plasterers on that job now surviving are William Melton and James Dagg, of Washington. His first contract in Hickory was in the present residence of John Scott, where he plastered for the late T. M. Berryhill, who afterward lived in the house.

Mr. and Mrs. McPeak enjoy reasonably good health, and today expressed the opinion that 1880 was an unusually popular year for getting married.

A twin brother of Mr. McPeak is S. N. McPeak, veteran lumber dealer here. Friends of these men often remark that they would not know where to go to find another pair of twins as healthy and hearty at 80 past.
